

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a device for storing tools, especially for storing drill bits, reamers, pivots, and dental implants, that includes a container for receiving the tools and a complementary closing mechanism that grips and closes the container by clipping onto it.